TRAINING COURSES

AESAC Inc. (Associated Environmental Site Assessors of Canada) is offering Environmental Site Assessment training courses across Canada. Courses are offered over an intense weekend session to minimize on time and expense. As a leading National Association for training and certification of Environmental Site Assessors, AESAC has announced the following course dates and locations:

Phase I Environmental Site Assessment Training

This is an intense weekend session that is offered in a productive workshop atmosphere, providing attendees with the training required to conduct Phase I Environmental Site Assessments.

The Course is suitable for both experienced practitioners and those wishing to enter the site assessment field and/or wish to be recognized as a Canadian Site Assessment Professional.

Successful completion of this course along with passing the certification exam entitles the attendee to be eligible for the CESA (Certified Environmental Site Assessor) designation.

Each step of the Environmental Site Assessment process is followed according to the CSA-Z768 guidelines.

Course fee includes step-by-step manual, real site visits, exam preparation, and final certification examination (prerequisites for CESA certification). Lunch and refreshments are provided.

A six month free membership with AESAC is awarded to all successful participants. Membership benefits include free referrals, group insurance options, industry news updates, and much more!

Phase II Environmental Site Assessment Seminar

This Seminar is designed to give an overview of the Phase II process.

Suitable for environmental practitioners and those who have completed the Phase I training course.

Topics include:

- How to design a Phase II to meet the primary assessment objectives
- Case Studies
- Review of application methodologies
- Laboratory Analysis
- Interpretation of Results

*Course's subject to minimum attendance
